Director Billy Clapper and The College Skills Camp

Billy Clapper created "The College Skills Camp" in 2005 after he finished his playing career at Youngstown State University. His idea was to bring high school players the workouts and drills that he learned during his playing career and has since implemented as a college basketball coach at Penn State Altoona, Indiana State, and Pittsburgh Johnstown. He takes pride in the individual development of the players he instructs as over 85 boys and girls that he has worked with have went on to play at the collegiate level.

The camp is now in its 5th year and allows each player to learn skills that will help them develop their basketball potential to reach their goals. This is an advanced camp and is designed specifically for players who want to become great high school players or play basketball at the collegiate level. If you want to take the next step in reaching your goals as a basketball player then we hope to see you this Summer!
